ANDREW JOHNSON ON RECONSTRUCTION.

"Ia calling a convention to restore the State, who shall restore and re-establish it? Shall the man who gave his influence and his means to destroy the Government? Is he to participate in the great work of reorganization? Shall he who brought this missery upon the State be permitted to control its destinies? If you could extend the election for Color who own critical collect of the Condition of the United Saates and the color of the United Saates, and pop taxes thereon, you would set an example the other States will folion. This you can do with perfect safety, and you thus place the Southern States, in reference to free persons of color, upon the same basis with the free States. I hope and trust your Convention will do this, and, a. a consequence, the Radicals, who are wild upon negro franchise, will be completely folied in their attempt to keep the Southern States from renewing their Pestions to the Union by not accepting their Senators and Representatives.

Meeting To-night. Posters were printed yesterday announcing a Union mass meeting to night at the Court House. A dispatch from Pittsburgh assured us that Gen. Sigle and Hon. Thos. Williams would both be here. Advices last night inform us that Gen. Sigle will possibly not be able to core e, but that Mr. Williams will certainly speak for us. We can only say to the people that the latter gentleman is one of the ablest men in Congress, and one of the most convincing men on the stump we know of. Let, us all turn out and do ourselves good by hearing him.

earnestly desired by every rebel in the land.

At last we arrived at Washington, hevin swung entirely around the cirkle and found traitors North and South. The demonstrashen to greet the President on his arrival, wuz immense. The clerks in all the Departments wuz out, at least them ez wuvz't will wish they hed bin, ez their names wuz all taken, the solgers on dooty wuz ordered out, and altogether it wuz the most spontaneus exhibition I ever witnest. The Mayor made a speech. The President enough from such mistakes in the past. The Judge may be all right and sound.

The Judge may be all right and sound traitors on all sides uv it, though sence held the will be will be uze satisfied there wuz the at time like this, when both sides know bearing him.

The temper of the South is illustrated in numerous extracts compiled from Southern papers by the Boston Daily Advertiser. They generally admit that the elections in the North are going against them. The Augusta Chronicle advises pattence and quiet. It says, "labor and wait." The Wilmington Journal defends the New Orleans masser, and rebukes the conservatives in the North for apologizing for it. It says, that the people of New Orleans is an extraordinary circumstance at a time like this, when both sides know their own so well, to see radical and the flux of the constroshing and essential antagonists uniting on one man.

Is an extraordinary circumstance at a time like this, when both sides know their own so well, to see radical and the flux of the thirty-six States, and the flux with the two their own so well, to see radical and the flux with the two their own so well, to see radical and the flux with the flux then in the North, but be flux with the flux with the flux withen in the Morth, he flux with the flux withe sale it may, he left the Constooniun and the flux with the flux the elections in the North are going against them. The Augusta Chronicle advises patience and quiet. It says, "labor and wait." The Wilmington Journal defends the New Orleans mascre, and rebukes the conservatives in the North for apologizing for it. It says that the people of New Orleans did "only what was necessary for their self-protection." The Itchmond Dispatch calls upon the President not to allow such men as Botts, and Greeley, and Butler, and Forney, to make speeches and print papers denouncing him and his policy. It asks "Where is the srmy? where is the speaking bayonet?" The Richmond Examiner demands another revolution, and says it net?" The Richmond Examiner demands another revolution, and says it is becoming apparent that the high-spirited people of Virginia cannot live under the same government with the detested Yankees. The general tone of the Southern press is bitter, vindictive and arrogant to the last degree. Whatever else has been conquered, it is plain that their boastful insolence and self-concelt have not at all suffered.

"With the Democratic Party, as it has been organized and directed since the rebellion broke but, I have nothing in common, and should regard its reestablished ascendancy in the government of the country, State or national, as a public calamity. There are no perils impending over the country which demand resort to so desperate a remedy, or which can be averted by it; remedy, or which can be averted by it; and I have implicit faith that the peo-ple, while checking the excesses of rash and extreme men in the Union Party, will still commit to its hands the restoration of the Union which its courage and devotion have saved."

These sentiments of Mr. Raymond's no doubt reflect the sentiments of Thurlow Weed, if not of Mr. Seward, and of the whole body of so-called "Conser

President Johnson's policy into the Philadelphia Convention. We presume
they are all as sick of that policy as Mr.

Is the editor of the rebel sheet, after all that he has said about negro suffrage, really going to take water on the question? Is he really afraid to answer our questions, and tell us, yes or no, whether he endorses President Johnson's sentiments as expressed in the Sharkey umns? Will he dodge on so plain an issue? Now, at Columbus, I shel vary it in the Sharkey letter, and in the Stearns' conversation?

Dare he come out? THE New York Times is quite satisfied of the failure of the rebel and copperhead colition. In an article on "The Political Canvass," it says:

party which opposed the Government during the war ought not to assume control of it, when the war is over;" and declares that the popular instinct is clear and unmistakable on this point. All the issues about reconstruction, the Times thinks, are postponed to the single one of maintaining the control of the Government in the hands of those who have stood by it, and not surren-

Coming as these ayowals of Mr. Raymond do, just in the white heat of the campaign, they will precipitate all hesitating, floating and wavering sentiment into the swelling masses of the Union party. It really seems now as if the majorities against the President's policy might be set down at fabulous figures. They will no doubt be unprecedentedly immense in many of the States, and overwhelming in all of them. In West Virginia here we ought to, and we think will, give ten thousand majority. "It is very evident that the public mind dreads the renewed ascendancy of the Democratic party more than it does the continued exclusion of the Southern States. While it regards the latter as a temporary inconvenience, involving no important or lasting consequences, it leoks upon the former as full of permanent peril to the country."

The Times goes on to say that "the party which opposed the Government during the war ought, not to assume during the war ought, not to assume the former war war with the party which opposed the government during the war ought, not to assume the former war in the former war in the former than the former war in the war in the former war in the former war in the war in the form

There are grave differences, but not irreconcilable, among those who sustained the Government, as to the conditions on which it should be reconstructed; there is a most gratifying unusimity upon the question of keeping from power the party that is responsible for the troubles that have afflicted the country, and whose accession is earnestly desired by every rebel in the land.
